A Statistical History of the New England Championship

AGENCE SHOT PHOTO / COURTESY OF NEW BALANCE

Cathy Schiro O'Brien, five-time winner of the New Englands, has since been a member of two U.S. Olympic teams.

The first New England Cross-Country Championship—for men only—was held in Boston, Mass., on November 23, 1935. Manchester Central High School of Manchester, N.H., was the team champion, and the individual champion was Robert Frederickson of Arlington High School in Arlington, Mass. Except for two years during World War II, the Cross-Country New Englands have been held continuously ever since.

Women did not compete, however, until 1977. The first time that women were part of the New Englands was November 12, 1977, in Montpelier, Vt. Cumberland High School from Cumberland, R.I., took the women's team championship, and Nancy Clark from New Hampshire's Bishop Brady High School was the women's individual champion.

The performance of Cathy Schiro of Dover, N.H., High School outshines all the stellar performances through the years. She won the New Englands an unprecedented five times, from 1980, as an eighth-grader, at a time when New Hampshire eighth-graders routinely participated in high school meets, through 1984, as a senior. She set a New England girls' record 5K time of 16:54.4 in 1984. Now Cathy Schiro O'Brien, she represented the United States on the 1988 and 1992 Olympic marathon teams. She made a special appearance at Thetford Academy to hand out the awards for the 1992 New England Championship.

Only two other women and four men have won the New Englands more than once: Liz Mueller of Waterford, Conn., High School in 1989, 1990, 1991, and 1992; Erin Sullivan of Mt. Mansfield, Vt., Union High School in 1997 and 1998; T. Breaux of Hartford, Conn., High School in 1944 and 1945; D. Silveria of New Bedford, Mass., High School in 1957 and 1958; R. Dulong of Randolph, Mass., High School in 1964 and 1965; and Jim Burke of Xavier High School in Connecticut in 1986 and 1987.

The statistics on the following pages were first compiled in 1989 by Keith Lawton of Cumberland, R.I., with the help of various people around New England, especially Larry Martin of New Hampshire and Monique Lawton of Rhode Island. They had to comb through microfilm of at least 12 New England newspapers to gather the data, and as a result there may be some errors and omissions.

Cathy Scruggs Pelton, then a student at Thetford Academy and today an accountant, keyboarded all the data in 1992, the first year that Thetford Academy hosted the New Englands. The results are now compiled and updated annually at Thetford Academy by Dan and Dana Grossman. If anyone has any of the missing information or notices any errors, omissions, misspellings, or typographical errors, please write to them c/o Thetford Academy, P.O. Box 190, Thetford, VT 05074 or at dan.grossman@green-mountains.com. ■

The site of the New England Cross-Country Championship has rotated since 1987 among Connecticut, Vermont, Rhode Island, and New Hampshire. Here, a trio of runners rounds a turn on the 5K course at Thetford Academy, which has been the meet's Vermont site since 1992.
